Institute of Tropics and Subtropics

Dear graduates, colleagues and friends,

The publication that you have just opened is issued by the Institute of Tropics and Subtropics to commemorate its fiftieth anniversary. It is a demonstration of pride over you who have achieved many successes all over the world, and are a credit to your alma mater.

The Institute of Tropics and Subtropics (ITS) is for you, our graduates and professional public, more commonly known under its old name "Institute of Tropical and Subtropical Agriculture (ITSZ)". The ITS has the status of a specialised workplace at the level of faculty of the Czech University of Life Sciences in Prague (CULS). At present the ITS has two BSc., six MSc. and two Ph.D. study fields. Bachelor's programmes "Tropical and Subtropical Agriculture" and "Sustainable Development in Tropics and Subtropics" are taught in Czech. The follow-up Master's programmes "Animal and Food Sciences in Tropics and Subtropics", "International Economic Development", "Management of Wild Animals and their Breeding in the Tropics and Subtropics", "Sustainable Rural Development in the Tropics and Subtropics", "Tropical Crop Management and Ecology" and "Tropical Forestry and Agroforestry" are taught in English. The Doctoral study programme "Agriculture in Tropics and Subtropics" is accredited and taught both in English and Czech, the other programme "Sustainable Rural Development in the Tropics and Subtropics" only in English.

At present the structure of studies corresponds to the principles of the Bologna Declaration; i.e. study structure 3 + 2 + 3, which consists of three-year bachelor degree study programme, a follow-up two-year master degree study programme, and three year and postgraduate doctoral degree studies. The ECTS credit system (study credits) is fully used, which makes the ITS studies compatible with similar institutions abroad. Using the credit system and with the help of the AGRINATURA association (Network of European Agricultural [Tropically and Subtropically Oriented] Universities and Scientific Complexes Related with Agricultural Development), whose secretariat is currently situated at our university, the ITS is able to offer all students study subjects and modules taught at partner institutions (Holland, Denmark, Spain, Germany, England, Belgium, France, Portugal, Italy, Ireland, Bulgaria and Turkey).

ITS research focuses especially on the Less Developed Countries in the Tropics and Subtropics as a result of its specialisation (particularly alternative natural and energy sources). Research activities are closely related to assistance to the less developed countries of the tropics and subtropics. The technical development assistance is afforded in accordance with the orientation of the foreign policy of the Czech Republic (at present these countries are Angola, Zambia, Jordan, Moldova, Mongolia, Namibia, Ethiopia, Peru, Uzbekistan, Vietnam, Indonesia, Mali and Senegal).

The Institute consists of the administrative part (Director, three deputies and an assistant, secretariat and study department) and four specialised departments: Department of Animal Breeding and Food Processing in the Tropics and Subtropics (DABFPTS), Department of Economic Development (DED), Department of Sustainable Technologies (DST) and Department of Tropical and Subtropical Crops and Agroforestry (DTSCA) .

The ITS activities have the classical organisation as a university body with a particular focus on education and research. Other components which are important for the workplace include:

consulting and project implementation activities, intensive international activities including participation in the EU Socrates/Erasmus (mobility of teachers) and scholarships abroad.

If you are interested in further information about the current scope and focus of teaching, research, development activities and other activities of the Institute, see www.its.cz; information about all the Czech University of Life Sciences Prague University can be found at www.czu.cz.

The Institute leadership sincerely hopes that our graduates will be pleased to find here their names, names of their classmates, teachers and other former employees of the ITS with whom you have met, and you will revive your memories of the study period, which is associated with the most beautiful period of life.
